Community Service vs. Take Action

COMMUNITY SERVICE PROJECTS fill an immediate need in the community. Although these projects help the community, they do so only for a short period of time, such as holding a book or clothing drive. They are one-time events that have a short-term impact.

A TAKE ACTION PROJECT picks up where a short-term project leaves off. Girls understand and address the root cause of the issue. Girls must also know how each project can be sustained and that its impact is measurable. Take Action Projects are WITH the community not just FOR the community.

A root cause is the underlying reason for a symptom, problem, or issue. It's the event that initiates a problem or issue.

There are three key questions to ask when planning a Take Action Project:

1. IS IT VISIBLE? The project should be seen by members of the community.
2. IS IT MEASURABLE? The success of the project can be determined by the number of people the project helped, the number of people who were involved, any reduction in the community's need, and other concrete, quantitative numbers.
3. IS IT SUSTAINABLE? Girls must make arrangements (such as collaborating with community leaders, organizations, or building alliances with mentors) to ensure that the project creates lasting change, and is not just a one-time event.

ACTIVITY

1. Have a list of issues for potential Take Action Projects, use the list provided, or ask participants to quickly brainstorm issues. Examples include hunger, trash on the beach, homelessness, breast cancer, or issues specific to your community.
2. Divide participants into teams.
3. Have each team develop a Community Service Project (short-term), and a Take Action Project (that would address the root problem) for each issue.

Community Service vs. Take Action

- a. If your meeting is taking place in person, distribute copies of the Take Action Project Worksheets, so volunteers can take notes during the discussion.
 - b. If your meeting is taking place virtually and has break-out rooms available as a feature, you can also assign an issue and a break-out room to each team to take 5 minutes to come up with the short-term solution and Take Action Project. Teams can then report back to the main group when the break-out rooms are closed.
 - c. If your meeting is taking place virtually but does not have break-out rooms available, you can show the issue list on the last screen and assign groups of volunteers to each issue, and each volunteer assigned to an issue can add their thoughts when the facilitator brings that issue up for discussion.
1. After the teams are finished, ask one person from each team to explain how they came up with their solutions.
 2. End the activity with a general discussion of Take Action Projects and ask Leaders to provide examples of Take Action Projects. Explain that there is progression in Take Action Projects from Daisy to Ambassador levels, asking experienced leaders for examples of projects that have worked for them.

Tip: If participants have difficulty going from the short-term solution to a take action project, use the leading questions, “After this short-term project is done, what could be done to prevent this problem for others?” and “After this short-term project is done, how do we make this a lasting project to continue to address this issue into the future?”

EXAMPLE OF ACTIVITY WORKSHEET:

ISSUE AND SHORT-TERM SOLUTION (one-time effort with short-term impact)	TAKE ACTION PROJECT (identifies root cause; has long-term impact and sustainable support)
Issue: A local park has a problem with litter. Solution: Have a park clean-up day.	Work with the city to install garbage cans and put up “No Littering” signs in the park.
Issue: An uninsured family’s home is destroyed in a fire. Solution: Collect clothes, household goods, and food for the family.	Organize a home goods depot, like a food pantry, for community members to have access to basic household goods in the event that they lose their homes in an emergency.
