FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS	13-15

Thank you.

Girl Scouts Heart of the Hudson, Inc. appreciates all the wonderful support and service from adult members who contribute thousands of service hours each year. We could not offer such high-quality programs and services to approximately 18,000 girl members throughout our seven counties without the support of many exceptional adults.

People volunteer for countless reasons, but underneath it all, most volunteers are motivated by the quality of their performance. When volunteers know their time and energy are appreciated and that they are valued by Girl Scouts, they commit themselves to the organization. Volunteers also want to know that their service is helping the greater good—that together we made a difference in girls' lives and, through our mission, make a difference in the world. Therefore, volunteer recognition is one of the most powerful tools for retaining the invaluable women and men who volunteer for Girl Scouts.

Anyone who works for the mission of Girl Scouts should feel respected and valued for their service and contribution. The ideal volunteer recognition system includes a mixture of informal and formal methods that acknowledge all volunteer accomplishments, regardless of role and length of service, and meet a wide variety of personal preferences. Key elements for a successful recognition system include inclusiveness, accessibility, and consistency.

Informal recognitions are day-to-day ways to say “thank you” to volunteers—they are heartfelt displays of recognition. These sincere expressions of appreciation are based on specific contributions and should be given in a timely manner. Informal recognition is powerful and effective, because volunteers feel valued by a personal touch. Examples of meaningful informal rewards include:

- A thank-you card or letter.
- Complimenting a volunteer's work in the volunteer's presence.
- Recognizing a volunteer's contributions at Service Unit or area meetings or events.
- Presentation of a thank-you gift or certificate.

Unlike informal rewards—which are given often—formal awards are the periodic presentation of tokens of recognition and are more official in nature. Formal awards are given to an individual or group of volunteers and are particularly useful in generating a sense of connectedness among a group and to the organization.

For decades national GSUSA Adult Awards have provided a consistent framework and valuable resources to help councils formally recognize volunteers who devote time and energy to our movement. In addition, Girl Scouts Heart of the Hudson now provides additional Adult Awards to complement the national awards available. This manual provides guidance to those who wish to formally recognize a Girl Scout Volunteer for their outstanding contribution to the organization.

HOW TO WRITE A GREAT NOMINATION OR ENDORSEMENT

It is best to prepare your nomination or endorsement as if the committee members reviewing the documents do not know the volunteer being nominated. They can only work with the information that is provided on nomination and endorsement forms.

1. Be specific.

If you are asked to describe the nominee's service that meets the criteria for the award, be very descriptive.

Uninformative example:

Lisa Leadsalot is always organized and is great with parent volunteers. We are all very fond of her and are willing to help under her leadership.

Informative example:

Lisa Leadsalot is a great example of adult volunteer leadership to girls and adults. Under the wing of her leadership 10 parents are actively volunteering with troop functions. She recently delegated event preparation details to us while she was out of town for a few weeks. Because she sends regular troop volunteer emails about the bank account status, upcoming adventures, year to date troop goals progress, and continuing volunteer needs, we felt informed and organized to step up to the leadership challenge! Lisa is always paying thanks to our support to the troop. When she came back from her trip, she paid thanks to us at the Service Unit meeting. She organized a potluck in recognition of her troop volunteers who provide her with endless support. Other troop leaders at the meeting were taking notes on all of her great ideas.

2. Show results.

Uninformative example:

Tonya Trainer provided an excellent training to the volunteers.

Informative example:

Tonya Trainer not only provided excellent training, but worked with the Service Unit to provide extra guidance to 20 troop volunteers through a series of get-togethers by Girl Scout level. Her support has increased the enthusiasm and energy of troop leaders in the area and motivated volunteers to add new activities to their troop plans.

3. Avoid using “feel good” statements.

Uninformative example:

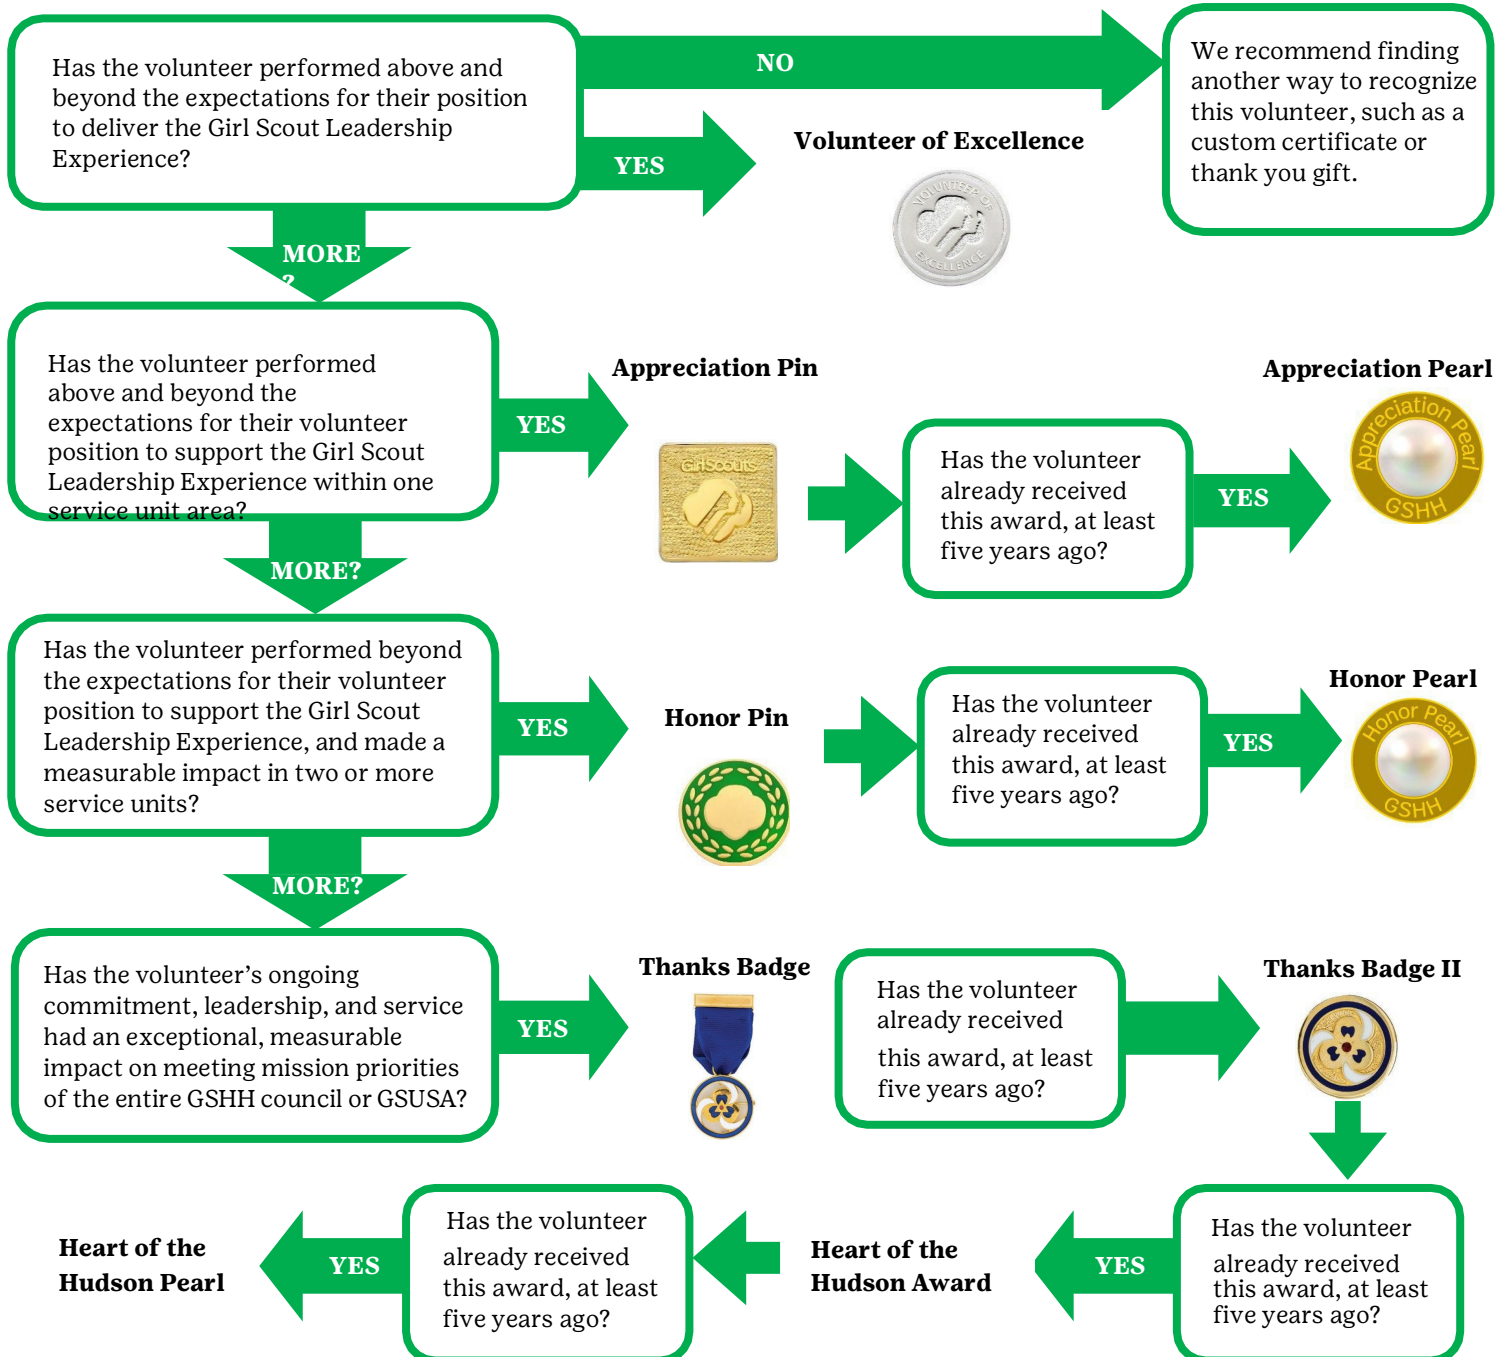

Susie Sales is really good with cookies with her Cadette troop. When she took over as Service Unit Cookie Chair, things went really well.

Informative example:

When the Service Unit Cookie Chair resigned, Susie Sales volunteered to step up to the challenge. She has worked with cookies for several years and was able to adapt to the Service Unit. She processed 19,000 boxes of cookies with no errors.

I want to nominate a volunteer or group of volunteers to be recognized. Which award should I choose?

If the volunteer's impact was related to Girl Scout historical preservation, we recommend consideration for the Anne Hyde Choate Award. If the impact was on global Girl Scouting, we recommend consideration for the Juliette Gordon Low World Friendship Medal. If you wish to recognize a team or committee for their outstanding service, we recommend consideration for the President's Award. For all other service, see below.
